

"The less they know, the safer you are."

Prominent people often face online harassment and in-person stalking. Without a plan, these THREATS can progress from words to actions. TSG's plan is straightforward; it suppresses online, personal information to protect the client, creates a buffer layer so the infiltrators communicate directly with TSG instead of the client, pre-plans for extra security when needed, works with authorities to move the stalker into the legal or mental health system, while discretely documenting everything.

TSG vigilantly monitors social media outlets where threats originate to ensure client protection. With years of training and experience, TSG is quickly able to assess the validity and capabilities of the threat to maintain client privacy and safety.

Data Removal

Removal of personal information from hundreds of online data broker sites and continuous monitoring to keep removing it if/when it reappears.

Threat Monitoring

Implementation of proprietary software and open source information to scrape social media and websites for threatening content.

Mitigation Plan

Communications are diverted from the client to TSG in order to deescalate the situation and document it for later use.

Security Plan

Armed security professionals are familiarized with client locations and ready to scale up protection. TSG also designs electronic and physical security systems and manages installations.

Liaison

Communication of client interests and concerns to police and mental health professionals.

Documentation

Creation of privileged and confidential records for the client's discretionary use.
